FIVE MEN MAY HAVE BEEN 117.
Oldest Person in Christian Passes Away.
Mrs. Abbie Fuller, the oldest person in Christian county and probably in the State, died Saturday night at her home near Kelly. Her age was supposed to be 110 years, but some who have known her for many years are of the opinion that she was 117. As she had been a sufferer for a number of years, was the cause of death, old age being contributory.
Mrs. Fuller's parents were natives of South Carolina. Many relatives of the deceased survive, a number of them residing in North Christian. The interment took place near Larkin yesterday.

MEETING WAS ENTHUSIASTIC.
Nine Counties Participate in Jefferson Davis Highway Conference.
TO MEET NEXT AT PADUCAH.
Col. Bennett H. Young One of the Speakers And 40 Delegates Present.

An enthusiastic meet was held at the Courthouse Saturday by delegates from nine counties, determined on the construction of the Jefferson Davis Highway, a great memorial boulevard with Bowling Green and Paducah as its termini.
A working basis was obtained in the adoption of a constitution, but only after a lively fight among a number of counties west of here as to the selection of the route from Hopkinsville to Paducah. The merits of three different routes were presented, and the interest manifested by the several county contingents was at times intense. The rivalry which exists over the selection of the route indicates the remarkable interest in this region in the good road movement. No decision was reached, the constitution being amended to read that the road shall be extended to Paducah "by the most feasible route."
President J. C. Penick, of Elkton, presided over the meeting, and County Attorney John C. Duffy was secretary pro. tem. in the absence of W. G. Davis, of Todd county. The following accredited delegates were present: Todd county, E. B. Lindsay and J. C. Penick; Christian county, J. M. Morris, W. R. Elliott, John C. Duffy; Trigg county, J. S. Lawrence, J. P. Watson, J. F. Giles and J. H. Gaines; Marshall county, Dr. Van A. Stailley and Judge J. L. Price; Crittenden county, Judge John W. Blue, County Attorney John A. Moore, the Rev. Arthur Mather, H. A. Haynes, W. V. Haynes, C. W. Haynes, John Wilson, George Foster and George M. Crider; Caldwell county, J. E. Crider and Henry Rice; Graves county, Gus Green; McCracken county, William Oliver, W. V. Eaton, L. A. Washington, A. J. Campbell, E. W. Brockman, J. R. Grogan and James Campbell, Jr.; Calloway county, H. B. Gilbert, L. Y. Woodruff, Rainey T. Wells, Warren, Logan and Simpson counties were without representation. A letter was read from County Judge Henry Denhart, of Warren county, expressing regret at being detained in Bowling Green, and offering cordial approval of the project.
Mayor Meacham welcomed the delegates and spoke in favor of good roads, pointing out what they have already done for Hopkinsville and Christian county.
Col. Bennett H. Young was the principal speaker and delivered a stirring address as he said from the "sentimental standpoint."
He paid a glowing eulogy to Jefferson Davis as a patriot, as a man and as President of the Confederacy, and said that the building of the Jefferson Davis highway was a fitting tribute to his memory.
In closing Col. Young announced that when the Jefferson Davis highway was completed he would personally contribute enough catalpa trees to plant both sides of the road the entire distance so as to furnish shade. He also said that the debt on the Jefferson Davis home was practically raised and that he hoped within the next eighteen months to see the memorial hall built and dedicated.
One new officer, vice chairman for the general association, was chosen in the person of Senator W. V. Eaton, of McCracken county. The of-

CAPTURED BUT ESCAPED.
Burglar Who Robbed Hardware Store of Forbes Mfg. Co.
THE GOODS RECOVERED.
Picked the Officer's Pocket of the Cell Key and Unlocked the Door.

The thief who broke into the hardware store of the Forbes Mfg. Co. ten days ago, was arrested in Paducah Friday and brought here Saturday and turned over to the Chief of Police. In his possession was found a suit case which he had expressed in the name of Geo. Brown to Charley Smith at Memphis. When arrested and searched the man, who gave the name of Henry Brown, had the express receipt on his person, given at Dawson and the suit case was returned to Memphis and opened. It contained 5 of the 11 pistols stolen from Forbes and 5 others of numbers not corresponding to those given by Mr. Forbes, but evidently his property. One pistol had been worn in a scabbard and this was missing, the empty scabbard being on Brown's person. From books and papers found his real name appeared to be C. H. Brown, Beaumont, Texas. He is about 20 years old, a beardless young fellow of medium size and weight.
He had on a pair of new shoes stolen at Nortonville after leaving here.
Brown was kept locked up until yesterday morning, when he waived examination and papers were made out turning him over to the county jailer and his guilt was so clearly apparent that the reward of $25.00 offered by Mr. Forbes was paid to the arresting officer.
Just before he was to be taken from the lockup, he asked Lieut. Hawkins to get him some shoes and he would tell where the missing pistol was. The shoes stolen at Nortonville had been taken from him. The officer purchased a pair of shoes and took them to his cell, dropping the cell key into the side pocket of his coat. When he left the cell he pushed it shut and it was locked by a springlock. The key was attached to a piece of wood not entirely concealed in the officer's pocket and Brown slipped the key out as the officer went out and as the chance came unlocked the door and escaped by the side door of the lockup, which is always open. A few minutes later he was missed and a boy was found who had seen him cross the river at the foot of Ninth Street.
Bloodhounds took his trail in a few minutes, but up to press hour he had not been recaptured.
Several of the pocket-knives stolen were recovered with the pistols and other goods stolen at Nortonville.
Brown is evidently a very smooth article and a professional burglar. A reward of $25 is offered for his recapture.
